Ensure Compliance and Mitigate Risk with Third-Party Verifications

The mortgage industry has been inundated with consumer protection mandates and risk mitigation guidelines that are shaping the "new normal" in loan origination. Underwriting guidelines will continue to evolve, but a new mantra of "independent, third-party verification" is here to stay. The Work Number®, a service of Equifax, is your complete verification solution, and the easiest way to confirm a borrower's current employment status.

Available directly through Point®, The Work Number is built on a truly unique asset-a database of nearly 50 million current employment records that enables the delivery of instant employment and income verifications for millions of applicants. More than 2,000 of the nation's largest employers contribute data to The Work Number database at every payroll cycle, and new employers are added monthly. That database is augmented by a dedicated team of Research Verification Specialists who can perform manual verifications on applicants not in the database, including self-employed workers.

A 2011 Mortgage Technology Top Service Provider, Equifax continues to invest significantly in developing cutting-edge tools that help progressive mortgage lenders meet both underwriting guidelines and investor and regulator mandates. The Work Number product suite is a prime example of this continued innovation.
